Client Testimonials:

"As an employee at a big tech company, I had the opportunity to work with Sophie for an event during which we took head shots of students for a Princeton recruitment event. Sophie was extremely communicative leading up to, during, and after the event, had an amazing rapport to make all of the students being photographed feel comfortable, and had a really quick turnaround time when it came to getting us the photos. Even with a less-than-optimal setting for setting up our shoot in an academic building, the final product was fantastic and I would definitely work with Sophie again!"

Richard W, NYC

"Sophie is a committed professional with her work. I had new profile shots taken by Sophie and used them with my social networking accounts. I continue to receive compliments on how well they came out."

John B, Montgomery, NJ

"Sophie was fantastic to work with. I contacted her for a professional portraits' package for social media pages and work intranet. The photos came out beautiful! She truly understands how to take natural light into your advantage so that the photos come out crisp and much nicer than from a studio session."

After hundreds of pictures we sat together and chose the best ones. Then she retouched and cropped them to make sure that there were no imperfections and that the image would fit nicely into the pages I needed.

Overall, Sophie exceeded my expectations both in quality and price. I have recommended her to professional associations, and will definitely use her services again."

Krizia K, Franklin Park, NJ

"Sophie was great to work with! I needed professional portraits done for a newsletter and contacted her. She was responsive, friendly, and the photos turned out wonderfully! I will definitely be using her in the future."

"Sophie is the real deal. She's:

- 1) Fast*
- 2) Personable (even if you don't like being in front of the camera)*
- 3) Crazy talented*

I work with schools and have met and interviewed many photographers over the last few years: school photographers, freelance photographers, event photographers, photographers in a box, photographers with lox, in a house, with a mouse, etc. I don't have an artistic background, so most of the nuances of their particular skills are lost on me. Regardless of quality, all of their portfolios and websites start to look the same. The subjects are well-lit and relatively happy. What more can you ask for?

I'll tell you: You can ask for Sophie. That's the "more" you can ask for.

Sophie did some work with me recently when I happened to have a photography-related emergency in regard to a work project and asked for her help. This was for a printing project I'd worked on each year for several years, and was previously happy with the quality of photographs in the printing. Sophie saved the day with last-minute photography help and was able to pull me and my team out of chaos in less than a week. She helped with every last-minute request we had.

Outside of the fact that she was able to shoot multiple subjects and deliver high-quality finished work on each of them in less than 5 days, the simple quality of the photographs was unbelievable. The photos that she took were so much better than the ones we had previously used that there could not be a comparison. One can expect a photograph of a bride to be relatively beautiful no matter the photographer, but when working with photographs of everyday office situations--as we were--Sophie's ability to take the most mundane setting (and the poorest possible lighting, not to mention inexperienced and often uncomfortable subjects) and produce stunning, evocative photos was nothing short of sensational.

You will be able to see a noticeable difference in Sophie's work over other photographers. On top of that, she is fast and easy to work with. I would definitely recommend her to anyone looking for a great photographer."
